An all-new “FIFA Ball” brings FIFA to life on any surface. In FIFA 22, the ball feels more realistic when coming out of a defender’s hands, staying glued on the ground, and when being passed and receiving passes. It responds correctly to the player’s intensity and his relationship to the ball. Players move faster on the pitch as they take possession, the ball rolls more realistically over surfaces, and players cut more sharply. The ball behaves as if it has bones, muscles and skin, and the characteristics of the pitch are also adjusted – resulting in unpredictable ball speeds and a more dynamic match. The powerful AI systems keep the action flowing. Defenders now move more intelligently to counter the players and opponents make smarter decisions when they are under pressure or when the ball is in the air. If the ball is passed, players move more proactively to receive the ball and the AI opponents take an intelligent decision to move in the right direction and cut to the correct place. The digital crowd behaves like real fans, and will react to the players’ actions. The partnership between the development team and the artificial intelligence team at EA SPORTS has resulted in a much more aggressive AI for defenders. They have grown more intelligent in the close game situations where they force opponents into awkward and surprising decisions. Defending is a more calculated process in FIFA 22. The new “FIFA Pass” camera, which reframes the entire game experience, provides new viewing angles. In addition, corner flag and goalkeepers models have been improved. “FIFA Pass” will be available via the FIFA Pass app for iOS and Android devices in FIFA 22. FIFA 22 introduces a new Tactical Defending AI which tries to pressure its opponents for a new and different type of dynamic match. Using this intelligent system for defensive positioning, defenders anticipate the right moment to react to the opponent’s moves. If a defender chooses to press the ball with his feet, he will quickly become the first player to react to the ball, and react to it in the correct direction. At the same time, teammates will immediately follow the defender’s footsteps, setting up the next attack. The new digital crowds will also react intelligently to the matches. FIFA 22 introduces realistic player and ball physics, and the visuals have been improved. The athlete animations have been optimized, and the ball has
