So is there anybody who know about these latex tools I already mentioned? This is a good chance for some comparison and feedback about those softwares I mentioned. If you use another latex tool than those I mentioned before, I would like to know what is your favorite. Platforms Supported: Mac, Windows Visit Website 4. TexDraw TexDraw is a great LaTeX editor for Linux, Mac, and Windows. The app supports many of the features commonly found in other LaTeX editors such as: code snippets, rich text editing, code completion, and so on. It is, however, not as powerful as other editors in some features. It lacks tables editing, user editing, and command definition options. Key Features: Integrated LaTeX environment for Windows and Mac applications, Powerfull features for rich text editing, Code snippets, Complete UTF-8 support, Auto-complete, Spell checking, Custom user directories, Custom search and replace, Document navigator, Library of LaTeX snippets, Complete console. Install Etex. In Etex you can prepare your very own LaTeX documents. Even though its getting harder to search for all the extra features that Etex has, its not as hard as it seems. Etex is older than the most popular LaTeX distribution-TeX Live, but Etex has a better base software package and a better online mode. Basically, if you know how to use TeX, you can use Etex. Its a free program, meaning there is no registration requirement and you dont need to register an account in order to use Etex. The program is freeware for noncommercial use. 5ec8ef588b
